WBCNA Volunteer Spotlight: Adrienne Stephens

Adrienne Stephens has been an owner of Rocket City Sitters, a local on-call babysitting service since its formation in July 2009. Her professional background is in business, with previous experience in the fields of marketing, event planning and advertising. She holds a Bachelor of Business Administration from Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. With Rocket City Sitters, she has become an active member in the community, serving as an Ambassador and a Mentor for the Madison Chamber of Commerce (MCC), receiving the 2010 MCC Ambassador of the Year Award. With Rocket City Sitters, she has donated time and resources to Panoply Arts Festival, Heart of the Valley YMCA, and the Children's Learning Garden at the Madison Library.

About Rocket City Sitters

Rocket City Sitters is a local business that matches families with qualified, experienced babysitters. Families are matched to a sitter who is infant and child CPR and first aid certified, has several years of extensive childcare experience, is at least 18 years old with their own transportation, and has passed a thorough background and reference check. Rocket City Sitters earned the 2010 Madison Chamber of Commerce Start-up of the Year Award and recently won first place in the 2010 Madison Business Expo & Kids Day Exhibitor Booth competition.
